"If you don’t go to Seto, where would you go?"

In the modern city, following the access roads into Seto, the city is concerepted by a sea of schools and a black smoke that cloaked the entire city. The Sensei, the mystical power, is no more. However, Seto is still in the heart of the Seto region and the birthplace of the industry of Seto. During this period, with the relaxation of labor, the ceramic industry of Seto consisted of a variety of workers, including wheel turners, painters, and fire, but also those who were people in charge of old work. For example, people of Seto who
